REAL SNAKES FOUND IN MASH AT BREATHITT STILL

Jackson.—The nine men arrested in a great moonshine raid here were held to the next term of the Boyd circuit court, at Catlettsburg, under bonds ranging from $500 to $1,000. Ten complete distilleries were destroyed and 2,500 gallons of still beer in 95 fermenters were poured out. A quantity of the finished product also was destroyed. The stills had been made from gasoline tanks of iron, and this alone would have made the product poisonous, officials said, but they found new horrors in pouring out the still beer which never before had been encountered. Dead frogs, lizards, snakes, a dead pig and a number of other small animals were found in the fermenters.

Dr. Hatten Celebrates His Eighty-fifth Birthday

The home of Dr. J. F. Hatten and wife was the scene of a most enjoyable affair on Sunday, October 15, it being the occasion of the eighty-fifth birthday of Dr. Hatten.

The home was tastefully decorated with autumn flowers and two large tables were filled in the dining room with delicious food and surrounded by the family, two brothers, namely Marion Hatten of Durbin and J. S. Turman of Buchanan, also Mrs. J. S. Turman, Arthur, Raymond and Myrtle Turman, Ed. Hatten, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thacker and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Buckley and daughter of Ashland, Mrs. Jesse Cyrus of Durbin, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Ross and two children of Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. F. T. D. Wallace, Jr., and Mary and Eugene Wallace of Ashland and Mrs. Chas. Warren.

As is the custom, Mr. Hatten had written the following poem which was read at the dining table after "thanks" had been returned by Dr. Hatten:

Milestone "Eighty-Five."
Another year has passed away.
I am so glad I am alive;
I realize I'm growing old
I've reached the age of eighty-five.

The Lord has kept me through the year.
No sad disaster has come to me;
From dangerous sickness and disease,
Has kept my body free.

He's been my Shepherd through the year.
Whichever I've gone He's kept me safe,
He's led me in the narrow way;
His blessings have followed me every day.

The greatest blessings I desire,
Are peace and joy and love;
That I may know that I'm prepared
To enter in that home above.

When my trials of life are over,
May the eternal life then unfold;
And the songs be sung in glory,
"It is well, it is well, with my soul."
